

Aggregating climate data

- A climate data manage is attempting to aggregate data managed by different legacy CDMS. Observations processes in place at the time and used by each CDMS differed. Using the example of station identifier, the climate data manager queries observations metadata for stations that occur in the same location to determine if the two identifiers refer to the same station.

